ABSTRACT

Although the pervasive problem of child abuse and complex with many causes, we must approach towards prevention of failure to do will not receive. Despite the absence of evidence to guide prevention efforts, many doctors may attempt to prevent the abuse and at least shows the growing concern for parents or jobs and increase our efforts to improve their skills as parents or caregivers may help save our most vulnerable patients from abuse and neglect nightmare. There have been cases with a high degree child abuse going back decades, according to joint and several non-care organizations. Query followed by a commentator to say that signs of "beginning of modern political, professional and public interest in child abuse." This article about the different ways.

Introduction

During the last 5 years, in particular a number of cases have come across such. Victim from age 3-13 years. Each time has been heard or reported in the newspaper, like most mothers, especially those having a daughter I feel that if my child has been violated. There are criminals in uncontrollable anger. Subject to media attention for a week or so and then be done is forgotten. Many of the individual are or is Scott Free and the punishment meted the penalty of 3-4 years simple imprisonment .

Incident that prompted me to write this piece the way that news to come from Great Britain to India was a couple looking for man who raped and killed a terrible year his 17-year-old girl more. Hardness and strength shown by the development was praised and, if all parents can answer such a disability with courage and determination in their one hour of deep sorrow. This can prevent the people of this great mind to cut. After the crime is committed only thing that can arrest and punishment is a question to blame meted out. What should be done to see that such cases are properly checked and justice will be meted? In contrast only sees a graphic description of the event and two months later, if lucky a small article about being mentioned in the court record and details of the alleged killers in some obscure section of the article .

I feel among crimes, crimes against children, innocent people suffer from diseases that are the most woeful goals. It usually killed the child, or if bad luck to survive leaves it to life despite its psychological impact on this. Sorrow and frustration felt by parents that your responsible for child protection cannot be described .

What right to justice for such crimes? The importance of proper sentence to save, but not in the meeting to serve as a deterrent for other people I think. Behind in the process of penning my thoughts when another sentence of 14 years was announced that occurred, the victim 13-year-old student. Blame 14 year sentence was received after the long extender. There were many sentence wrangles about meting death. Objection from some human rights organizations and celebrities guilty family. Great leaders like the President had a man sent a mercy petition, which, however, was rejected and sent to hangman. I feel justified decisions and human rights organizations should be more sensitive to victims and their families than people like. As a mother I felt that providing such a bad penalty to protect children from the other innocent victims .

When sexual abuse has occurred, the child can develop behaviors variety of uncomfortable feelings and thoughts. Sexual abuse of children eventually becomes child abusers or prostitutes, serious or other problems that reach adulthood. Therefore this problem must deal decisively with the prospect of considering all this .

Child sexual abuse has been reported in up to 80,000 times, but the number of unreported cases much more, because children are afraid to tell anyone what has happened, and legal method for credit sector is difficult. Problem must be identified, stop the abuse, and child should receive professional help will. Long-term psychological trauma and sexual abuse can be devastating to children .

No matter what ever a concern, the children always had a hand to reduce their use. Evolution of childhood from incest to love and from abuse to empathy is a slow, uneven path, but one that is progressive direction, I think, no doubt. This evolution of parent child relationships, I claim, an independent source of historical change, lie in the ability of successive generations of parents living through their second childhood injuries and time to work through its concerns in this way a little better the second time around. The concern is that feeling that I say that history as psychotherapy, improved earlier also walked through a childhood trauma in reworking and if her parents - her mother, for most of history - have is even more support at the community, the evolution from childhood progresses, new changes in the historical character is formed, and began to move in on new initiatives .

It is unfortunate to say that it is obvious that all the above types of abuse are among the workers children. Number of social scientists has described to reveal the main motivation factors behind child abuse. Psychiatric social and cultural explanation. Including social and cultural explanation) social position b) social habitability and c) description of social control. Recently social scientists to send three additional types of resources described explanations.1, 2 and 3 describe social learning social interaction.

Description psychiatry psychological explanation many scientists had been raised by its links with child abuse disorders such factors as mental illness or defect within the individual personality. It also links parents to abuse their childhood experiences to individuals character development was weak and poor self control. Thesis that personality disorder is responsible for reporting child abuse was advanced that the abusers more often had a desire to shock and / or anti-social acts that expand beyond the role of prevention. Parents, according to this explanation may Bhasak / abuse (child because he did not meet the emotional needs and their abilities (parents) or expectations, their emotional wounds comments or deprived of their family background affect their ability to care for their children, 1998). This explains the first support groups, many supported in many fields including law making and public-interest because of its many responsibilities directed to the person directly involved in abusive behavior, and society absolved of blame in helping abuse of children at risk through lack of education, adequate housing, family support programs, employment opportunities, and so on. However, recent studies disproved the role of Psychopathology in child abuse (Burgess, 1989).

Research on the causes of child abuse recently undergone paradigm changes. Research results from childhood by the panel at the National Research Council research Abuse and Neglect, 8 signal an important step away from simple cause and effect model. As for the panel was recognized by the National Research Council scientists or simple cause and effect certain limitations, mainly related to the parents to limit their focus. This model, limited only by your asking about the collection of isolated features of a person who may be parents because of abuse or neglect of children. In addition, these models also would fail to account for the incidence of child abuse in different forms. However, these models, abuse of power has very little to explain the weight value of various risk factors involved in the child. As a result, their abuse of children not precise predictions about the future .

To replace the old static model, to replace the panel called for ecological "model". This model considered the source of any abuse of children is a complex interactive process. This view ecological model of child abuse within the system of risk and protective factors interact across four levels: (1) person (2) family (3) and society (4) society. 8, 15, 16 However, some factors more closely related to some kinds of abuse from others. 8 factors thought to contribute to the development of emotional and physical abuse and neglect of children in the list by experts and discussed below .

Social control seems some parents use violence against their children do not remember the fear struck back. Social interaction approach explains why the abuse of children in terms of interaction between individual families and social factors associated with both past and present events. Condition in which children raised may help reveal why some adults prone to abusive behavior, given certain conditions are set. Social Learning Theory emphasizes the nature learned from parents and the fact that many parents lack the knowledge and skills to do very complex and child rearing. (Kumar, 2003).

In India, the demand for children comes mainly from local people. However, India and other South Asian countries to gradually replace the South-East Asia as the venue of choice for foreigners, as there are fewer laws against child sexual abuse, child and Southeast Asia can be more cost-effective purchase price in . Convention on the Rights of the Child is correct and supported by 178 countries including India in the non-governmental organizations, lawyers, government employees, officers and policy, no choice but to all possible measures to ensure the protection of children's rights. We do not need is more laws. We present a number of laws that is not running .

Types of abuse

Neglect

Child abuse and neglect can be defined as deliberate non-accidental injury, malnourished children by parents, temporary, employers and others, including those provided or Government / Non-Government body that may result in temporary or permanent damage to their physical, mental, mental, social development, disability death (Uma, 1990). Children, especially infants, perhaps the most vulnerable victims of crime, because of its large dependence on their parents. Stranger sad that more children are suffering from the fall to limit their hands as parents and friends and then a hand. This type of abuse can be classified under more physical neglect emotional neglect, neglect of moral and social neglect.

Emotional abuse

Child emotional abuse can be judge as a pattern of behavior undermines the child's emotional development or sense of self worth. This guidance may include constant criticism, threats, or reject and refuse to love the help, support, or. Emotional abuse is rarely manifested in physical symptoms. Physical indicators of emotional abuse are a few of speech disorders, delayed growth and physical growth failure syndrome .

Abuse there is no global definition of child sexual. However, the main features of any abuse dominant position adult activity that allows him or her to force or coerce sexual child. Child sexual abuse may include fondling a child genitals, masturbation, oral genital contact, digital penetration, and vaginal and anal intercourse. Child sexual abuse is not only to limit physical contact; abuse, including pornography abuse can include non contact, such as exposure, voyeurism, and child. Abuse by peers also occurs .

Accurate statistics on the prevalence of sexual abuse of children and adolescents abuse problem because of difficulties collecting under reporting and lack of a definition of what constitute such. However, experts are generally agreed among mental health and child protection, sexual child abuse is not uncommon and serious problem in the United States of America .

Impact of sexual abuse can range from those that any apparent effects to very severe. Typically, children who experience the most serious types of harassing his family and to high degree of physical force exhibit behavior problems ranging from separation anxiety to posttraumatic stress disorder. However, child sexual abuse victims often exposed to abuse of other stressors and difficult situations in your life, including parental drug. Sexual abuse and its consequences may be the only part of the experience of negative behavior in children and the next show. Therefore, to correctly diagnose abuse is often complex. Definitive physical evidence of sexual abuse is relatively rare and suspected cases for all these reasons, the suspected abuse has been properly trained health professional should be consulted .

Child sexual abuse victims who are they ?

The most visible form of child labor abuse of children who normally lives with her parents. If the children execute their head chief may be angry beatings, burns, fractures failed, and others wear more boys than girls being obese. The school kids are more well by other children beaten. Studies have shown that mothers physically abused children more than fathers. The study also says more expressive violence is that it is the physical use of its end. Power-oriented rhetoric or violence in which violence is considered not only as a threat, including children to change their behavior, but for parents and authority. Sediment child violence in which victims or victims of their actions as completely diverted by helping parents or exceed defined via stimulation of them is hostile .

Causes of physical abuse

Many social scientists with regard to different causes of physical abuse. Some of the mentally individual pathology of the perpetrators as the main cause is the cause, socially Psychopathology as a major cause of family interaction, and also some major emphasis on the acute situation as a chignon. Stress situation with reference to four models of the dominant causes of child physical abuse of a relationship between husband and wife relationship between parents and children 2 3 structural stress, and stress is produced four children. Overall we can say that through the role of personality traits of abusers, but cannot be ignored in situations of stress and family environment, family Radian more critical battering child. Sexual abuse of children into child abuse in which a child for sexual gratification adult or older youth have been harassed. In addition to direct sexual contact, child sexual abuse also occurs when an adult indecently exposed his genitalia to a child asks or pressures a child to engage in sexual activity, child pornography display, or use for the production of child pornography Children.

The role of nongovernmental organizations is almost become a pattern of expression. Choice rhetoric is that nongovernmental organizations are close to the target groups, the role of nongovernmental organizations most critical and important one. This way of transferring responsibility from one department to another. Our government, however, cannot avoid responsibility. NGOs can be partners, not replace, the efforts of the government. There is need to raise public awareness and sensitivity about the problems that confront us in our work. Child prostitution problem has to do not only through rehabilitation, but has greater emphasis on prevention. There are backward and rural areas provide a base for smugglers. This is where the real problem. NGOs should work towards rural development in poor families is such, however, forced to send their children to gain focus. We lack the skills to search underneath the Mafia is dangerous. Those who make money are lost in smuggling. We witnessed the power of community action in Manila where the parents of the children came from the streets and demanded justice in Goa in which claims are going on; coastal areas in Sri Lanka, where a small community groups are committed to monitoring the problem in order to protect their own children. Community to step up and hand in hand, though it is something that will be easy .

Conclusion

Overall, rape and sexual abuse of children in India is a big problem, no solution is easy. Although the problem persists throughout the world, Indian culture that traditionally women under men keeps causing private discussion of issues such as illegal, corrupt and weak legal system and that the rape is caused problems are even larger. However, the situation can be appropriately by teaching children and adults on sexual abuse, better education and strengthening the police and laws. More women's empowerment may lead to healthy changes as well .

It is clear that we as doctors could not hope to child abuse problem solve by ourselves. Many things must happen in the international, national, state and community levels to prevent child abuse. Doctor is concerned for the welfare of children must advocate for more accessible, affordable child and high quality health care in the local community. Studies have shown that countries with more generous social services child homicide.16 lowest rate available for physicians to more drug and alcohol treatment programs, more shelters for the homeless, mental health care more accessible and Shelters for abused women and children lobby. These programs provide skills and those parents, support groups and respite care for parents and caregivers should be available in every community.
